

My Best Friend

Harper is from England. Now, she lives in the U.S. She studies history at a college. At first, she was very homesick, because she did not have any friends. She always ate lunch alone.

One day, a girl sat next to her at the cafeteria. She started to talk to Harper. Her name was Tomoko. She was from Japan. Tomoko was interesting. She was studying art. She was good at drawing. She invited her to a party.

Harper went to her party. There were fifteen people. They were all from three different countries, Japan, Korea and Germany. Tomoko cooked Japanese food. They enjoyed eating and talking. Harper made a lot of friends. She was not lonely anymore.

Harper and Tomoko became best friends. Harper wrote a story about an event in American history and Tomoko drew the pictures. They made a book. They didn't sell the book. The book was a symbol of their friendship.
