Listening script

Some people love watching sports, but some people do not. Some people like playing sports, but they are not interested in watching them.

One reason is the way our brains work. Sports fans enjoy not knowing who will win the game. They feel excited because the result is not clear.

When their team wins, they think, "We won!" Their brains make dopamine, so they feel happy and excited.

People get excited about different things. Some people love sports, but others love music, games, science, or art.
